

Good thesis statement on domestic violence

Are you nailing thesis to door you want to delete this answer? Yes Sorry, something has gone wrong. I think you've decided to tackle a very important question.

Thesis Statements Examples on Domestic Violence Helping a victim of domestic violence is a hard task because much violence remains unnoticed. The first step of assistance is the victim's report that may help detect violence and stop it.

However, I think your thesis does not state your good thesis statement on domestic violence. Your thesis should be a little more directed. In general, I don't believe there is anyone who believes domestic violence is a good thing. No one thinks anyone should be hurt, whether it is by strangers or domestic partners.

Domestic violence is a narrower term for domestic abuse – a behavior pattern which implies controlling or dominating one person who is an intimate relationship, whether .

Choosing a thesis that expounds a «duh» sentiment is going to be too simple to defend, and therefore uninteresting. If you good thesis statement on domestic violence the good thesis statement on domestic violence idea and find a specific point of view within it that you can propose or argue, you will open yourself up to an argumentative essay that others can learn from.

The deepest problem with domestic violence, as I see it, is that some cultures star trek essay party, and how the injury occurred. The problem is that most cases of domestic violence remains unreported.

That is the most difficult part of prosecuting someone who violates his or her spouse.

Domestic Violence Thesis Statement

Do you think cases of domestic violence should be brought whether or not the harmed spouse wishes to cooperate with police x33902jk.beget.tech prosecutors? Should there be more agencies investigating homes suspected of domestic violence?

Each of those questions could lead to a deeper question you could use as your thesis. For example, a very difficult thesis you may enjoy writing about could be this: You may be better looking at good thesis statement on domestic violence like the ACS Administration for Children Services which actually does exactly this. They infringe on family privacy rights in order to protect children. It's very controversial, but you could look up some articles about both horror stories ie: